

Aluminium brazing Flux Cored Wire

Aluminum brazing flux-cored wire is designed for joining aluminum components. It features an aluminum alloy outer sheath with a flux-filled core that cleans oxides and improves metal flow during the brazing process. This eliminates the need for separate flux application, ensuring strong, reliable joints with minimal residue. It is commonly used in industries like HVAC, automotive, and refrigeration.

Read More

SKU:

Price: ~~$5,410.00~~ $4,500.00

Stock: instock

Categories: Welding Consumables, Flux Cored Wires

Tags: Aluminium brazing Flux Cored Wire

Product Description

Aluminum brazing flux-cored wire is designed for joining aluminum components. It features an aluminum alloy outer sheath with a flux-filled core that cleans oxides and improves metal flow during the brazing process. This eliminates the need for separate flux application, ensuring strong, reliable joints with minimal residue. It is commonly used in industries like HVAC, automotive, and refrigeration.
